Gold Mine of a Play

By C. Behnken

I've had my 4th graders perform this play and it's an absolute gem. The songs are fun, well written, and easy to adapt to any size class. There's plenty of opportunity for participation for everyone and props and costumes are easy to find/create. Every 4th grade class should do it!

Outdated social messages with terrible music.

By _____

I wish I could give this play no stars. My fourth grader hates this and so do I. The music is terrible and grating, but gets stuck in your head. The slap stick approach with the anti-intellectual friend who is full of fall tales and mis-information tiresome. But overall, what is worse, is that it makes a mockery of the real suffering many faced to be desperate enough to undertake such risks and the exploitation of not just of those desperate people, but of natural resources. There is exactly one sentence about the native Americans being treated badly, that seems inserted like an afterthought. This is a capitalist fantasy. In 2016, this seems outdated and tone deaf to social justice and environmental stewardship. This is the epitome of white privilege, with jaunty tunes.

... well to split up the songs and parts for easy rehearsal-had a fantastic time and the audience loved it

By DJ

I put this historical musical on with a fellow teacher and we found it worked very well to split up the songs and parts for easy rehearsal-had a fantastic time and the audience loved it!
